

IGEC Best Student Paper Award

The IGEC Best Student Paper Award recognizes the best paper authored primarily by a student and presented by the student at the International Green Energy Conference (IGEC). The Award may include a cash prize based on the availability of sponsorship.

1. Eligibility

Student authors are invited to enter competition during the submission stage, and an eligible paper should meet the criteria described as below:

- The student must be the leading author of the paper. The corresponding author should confirm in writing that the leading student author genuinely conducted the research work.
- The student must present the paper. The award is however for the best written paper, so the presentation will not form part of the evaluation.
- The paper is limited to 12 pages.

2. Judging Criteria

The judging panel are asked to evaluate the papers based upon the criteria below.

- Structure
- Theme
- Integration
- Contribution
- Research methodology
- Conclusion

3. Judging procedure

The judges evaluate the papers independently, and then meet to discuss and agree on a ranking list to identify the best paper(s).
